

Register for Philosophy of Education (EDFON 631) - Spring 2010
The study and critique of operating educational philosophies is critical to evaluating the sustainability of a nation. A country's long-term prospects are linked to the quality of its education!

Aristotle once claimed that:

"All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth."

Philosophy of Education (EDFON 631) examines the big ideas that have historically shaped various levels and forms of education throughout the rise of America as a world power. As co-inquirers in this course, students conduct broad analysis and critique of underlying ideologies and principles informing American educational systems, theory and practice. In a project-based approach to learning, students may choose philosophical examination of the guiding principles of a selected type or form of education.

For further information contact: Dr. Sheron Fraser-Burgess, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor of Social Foundations/Multicultural Education
TC 806
Ball State University
Muncie, IN 47306
(765) 285-5471