

BALL STATE UNIVERSITY

Guidelines For Submitting a Women of Beneficence Grant Proposal

The Women of Beneficence was created to support and fund innovative projects and programs at Ball State University – impacting students and benefiting our local, national, and international communities. Women of Beneficence is seeking projects or programs in line with Ball State University's Beneficence Pledge, (<https://www.bsu.edu/about/beneficence>) and will contribute to the University's aspiration of being a model student-centered and community engaged university. Women of Beneficence funded grants are a conduit to prepare students for meaningful life-long learning and service after graduation.

Eligibility: Ball State University faculty and professional staff are eligible to submit a proposal. Women of Beneficence will consider funding for: specialized equipment, student assistant wages, graduate assistantship stipends, materials and supplies to support the project and summer stipends (salary is capped at $3,000, plus fringe benefits).

Women of Beneficence will not consider funding for: faculty overloads for the academic year, faculty research projects, computer equipment, tuition remission, general office equipment, or indirect costs. A project director may only hold one Women of Beneficence award per fiscal year.

Proposal Process: You must work with your department's assigned Proposal Manager in Sponsored Projects Administration (SPA) develop and route your proposal for university approval prior to submitting in InfoReady. Please refer to the attached rating sheet for the scoring rubric.

Project Timeline: The grant period for Women of Beneficence Awards will be from May 1 to August 31.

DEADLINE: December 1, 5:00 PM

Review Process: The proposals are reviewed by the Grants Committee made up of Women of Beneficence members. In January, the grants committee will select the top proposals for presentation to the full Women of Beneficence Membership at the Women of Beneficence Annual Meeting. All applicants will be notified of a decision after this meeting. In March, the selected proposals are presented at the Women of Beneficence Annual Meeting. Following a vote by the Women of Beneficence members grant recipients will be notified.

Awards: Grant proposals may be funded up to $30,000. The number of grants awarded is determined by the amount of money available each year.

Post-Grant Report: Grant recipients are requested to share the results of their work at various Women of Beneficence events throughout the year. A final report will be required of all grantees no later than 30 days after the project period ends. The final request for payments is due no later than October 31 of the project year. The reporting requirements will be outlined in the award letter. All requests for changes to the grant as awarded need to be submitted in advance for approval by the Women of Beneficence.

Parts of the application in InfoReady will include the following items.

1. Explain how this project helps transform students into impactful leaders. How does the proposal address the following themes? (500 Words) You may address more than one.
 - Beneficence Pledge (scholarship & excellence, integrity, respect and social responsibility)
 - Focus on Students
 - Commitment to the Community
2. Describe the purpose of your request. (500 Words)
3. Please list and describe the measurable goals/objectives for your request. (750 Words)
4. Describe your project's timeline, including benchmarks. (500 Words)
5. Describe how Ball State University students will directly work on and be impacted by their participation in this project. (500 Words)
6. Are there plans to continue the project past the Women of Beneficence grant period? If no, please describe why. If yes, describe the sustainability initiatives planned. (500 Words)
7. Upload the completed Budget Table/Narrative document (provided in InfoReady).

The following attachments are highly encouraged but not required (to be uploaded).

- Up to 1-page glossary for definitions/jargon/acronyms
- Up to 1-page of references cited in the proposal narrative
- Letters of collaboration or commitment from community partners