

Tashema Davis is a full time artist and a middle school art teacher. She is primarily an oil painter who enjoys painting African American portraits. Her work is expressive and full of color. Davis desires to highlight everyday people and circumstances through painting. She continues to master her painting techniques by experimenting with different subject matters like animals, balloons and abstract objects. Davis would like for you to know that Art is for everyone.