Alma Mater • Gladys Schindler Chrisman, '30

Ms. Tiernan

Dear Alma Mater, hear our vow of faith and trust in thee!

Thy spirit hovers near us now, and through eternity.

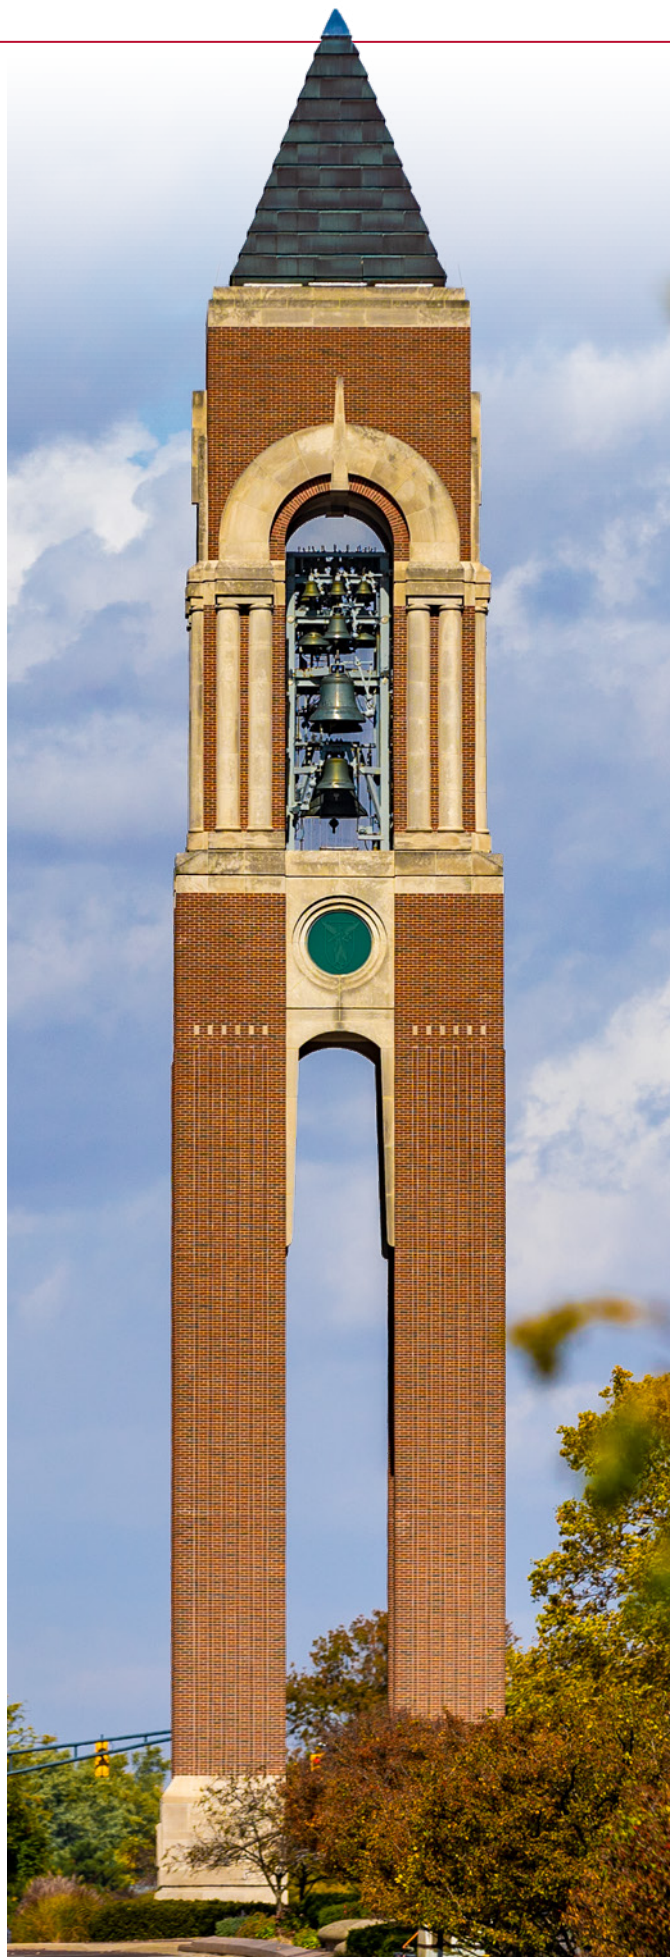

Thy colors true of red and white shall e’er exalted be.

We’ll honor thee both day and night;

Dear Alma Mater, we love thee!

Katherine Denker

Commencement Speaker

Dr. Katherine Denker has served Ball State University since 2009. She is a professor and director of graduate studies in the Department of Communication Studies in the College of Communication, Information, and Media (CCIM). Her teaching, research, and service are guided by a commitment to student engagement, equity, voice, and the meaningful application of communication principles.

A scholar of instructional and interpersonal communication, Dr. Denker's research focuses on issues of power, identity, and voice in classrooms, relationships, organizations, and other personal and professional contexts. Her work has appeared in book chapters and in such publications as the Journal of Communication Pedagogy, Feminist Pedagogy, Journal of Family Communication, Women & Language, and Computers in Human Behavior.

In the classroom, Dr. Denker is known for helping students understand the transformative power of communication. She teaches undergraduate and graduate courses in public communication, interpersonal communication, relational communication, organizational communication, qualitative research, and instructional communication. Through her teaching and mentoring, she encourages students to apply communication theory to their own lives and relationships while developing confidence, critical thinking skills, and a stronger sense of voice.

Dr. Denker's service to the discipline includes leadership in the Central States Communication Association, where she is a past president. She also has served as an editorial board member for several academic journals, including Communication Teacher, Communication Studies, the Journal of Autoethnography, the Journal of Communication Pedagogy, Women & Language, Women's Studies in Communication, and Basic Communication Course Annual.

Among her many honors, Dr. Denker has received the 2025 Outstanding Faculty Award, the CCIM Dean's Faculty Award and Faculty Research Award, the Graduate School's Excellence in Graduate Recruiting recognition, the Outstanding Master's Mentor Award from the National Communication Association, the Outstanding Service Award from the Central States Communication Association, and the Access Award from Ball State's Office of Disability Services.

Dr. Denker earned her PhD in interpersonal communication from the University of Missouri. She also holds a master's degree, with a focus on instructional communication, and a bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska Omaha.

Honors College

Interim Dean: Richard J. Petts

Associate Dean: Kristin M. Barry

Founded as an honors program in 1959 and designated as the University Honors College in 1979, the Honors College provides distinctive educational opportunities for undergraduates who show promise of high academic achievement. These students were invited to enroll in the Honors College based on their outstanding high school academic records or were admitted upon petition after enrolling at Ball State.

In addition to their major and minor concentrations, they have taken symposia in contemporary American civilization, global studies, and science, as well as a three-course sequence in the humanities that investigates the great ideas of literature, science, philosophy, politics, and the fine arts. Other work included a minimum of two colloquiums, specially developed by Honors faculty, that focus on critical issues in their areas of expertise. Senior capstone work included a thesis or creative project.

Students need a cumulative GPA of 3.33 or higher to graduate from the Honors College and wear the bronze medallion with red and white ribbon.

Graduation with Departmental Honors

To graduate with departmental honors in a major concentration, a student must complete a program during their junior and senior years that consists of tutorials, independent research, and an honors thesis. The minimum GPA in the academic major is 3.5.

Leah Jane Turner

Graduation with Academic Distinction

Associate degree recipients with GPAs of 3.6 or higher and at least 30 graded credits from Ball State University graduate with academic distinction. If their final grades fall below this average, they will not qualify for this honor.

Graduation with Academic Honors

Baccalaureate degree recipients with outstanding scholastic records graduate with academic honors. Exceptional students with cumulative GPAs of at least 3.9 (where A = 4.0) graduate summa cum laude. Students with scholastic averages of 3.8 to 3.899 graduate magna cum laude. Students with cumulative scholastic averages of 3.6 to 3.799 graduate cum laude. Scholastic averages are calculated for all work at Ball State University, and students must have at least 60 graded credits from Ball State to qualify. Because academic honors are computed before all grades are submitted, students whose final grades raise them into graduation with academic honors or into higher categories will have such designations on their diplomas and transcripts. If final grades drop students a level or below academic honors levels, honors designations will be changed or removed.

*Denotes students achieving a cumulative GPA of 4.0.
