Greetings Musicians

This Fall we have new options for listening. First, a USB turntable added to a Mac near the MC counter makes our small but unique collection of LPs more available for listening and study. We also have new CD reissues of historical performances from the L'Oiseau Lyre label. Many of these had not previously been reissued. And Naxos Music Library has added Deutsche Grammophon and Decca to its wide selection of labels available for online listening. I hope you will find new pieces and intriguing performances among these additions.

New! USB Turntable

No, everything is not on the web! Nor have all LPs been re-released as compact discs! The Music Collection includes over 300 LPs that have not been reissued. A Numark turntable is now attached to a Mac near the Music Collection circulation counter for listening to them digitally via USB. (headphones available too!) There is also a portable LP player available for check-out from Educational Technology & Resources. LP examples include:

- Choral Music by Women Composers
  Sound Record 479

- 17th Century Bel Canto (London Early Music Group)
  Sound Record 475

- Fanny Mendelssohn Hensel: Rediscovered
  Sound Record 383

- Rochberg. String Quartet No. 7 (with baritone)
  Sound Record 207

- Rore / Hilliard Ensemble. Le Vergine (Madrigals)
  Sound Record 404

- Erb. Spatial Fanfare & other works
  Sound Record 244

  Compact Disc 22538
  Each movement of Karlheinz Stockhausen’s Zodiac: I2 Melodies of the Star Signs (M 1470 .583 T5) is paired with a 14th-Century work by Machaut, Ciconia, Jacopo da Bologna and anonymous composers.

- Serene Ecstasy: Light and Sorrow of Orthodox Russia
  (The Spiritual Revival Choir of Moscow’s Schnittke Institute of Music)
  Orthodox Christianity isn’t known for religious choral music, but the tradition is rich and continues today. This collection includes music by Tchaikovsky, Schnittke, and lesser-known composers.
  Compact Disc 22539

- Capturing Music: The Story of Notation
  Serene Ecstasy: Light and Sorrow of Orthodox Russia
  Noted scholar Thomas Forrest Kelly’s lavishly illustrated book on medieval notation explains with clarity and insight how notation evolved from the Guidonian “hand” to modern notation. Color Examples from famous manuscripts include the Roman de Fauvel and the famous 14th Century chanson notated in the shape of a heart. The book comes with a CD.

- Method Music
  Lawrence Ball. (Inspired by Pete Townshend of The Who)
  Compact Disc 22537
  Composer-mathematician Lawrence Ball crowd-sourced personal data from volunteers on the internet, then turned the data into musical works. The idea was the brainchild of Pete Townshend, of the rock group, The Who. Townsend envisioned an opera called “Lifehouse” that would include music based on data from audience members. After meeting Ball, the two developed The Lifehouse Method website, which resulted in over 10,000 musical self-portraits based on users’ personal data and Ball’s “Harmonic Maths” musical system. The CD reuses some of the data, though the pieces are not based on specific people. The results are several numbered pieces called “Imaginary Sitter.” There are also three “Imaginary Galaxies” in honor of deceased musicians Barrett, Hopper and Ligeti. The style is reminiscent of ambient music and minimalist composers, including Terry Riley (“In C”), whom both Ball and Townsend admire.
