

Piper Murphy (she/they) is a performer and writer from Carmel, Indiana. She is currently finishing up her BFA in Musical Theatre from Ball State University along with her minor in New Works for the Stage. She is passionate about bringing truth and authenticity to fictional works in order to connect with the wider world. Outside of theatre, she loves reading books, perfecting homemade hot chocolate, practicing French, and writing songs on the guitar. In the future, she sees herself continuing to further her craft by working in live theatre, film, improv comedy, and writing what she wishes was already written.
