

The Waiting Game

Don't be afraid to follow up in a week or so if you haven't received a response from the professor.

Tip: Instead of sending a new email, simply reply to your initial email so the professor knows what you're referring to.

Consider going to office hours if you're not getting a response. This way, the professor is guaranteed to be there. Sometimes this can be a better way of getting connected with the professor.