Three main words were chosen to influence the overall design of the space. We analyzed the meaning of each word to gain a better understanding and direction that we wanted to follow. To reflect “easygoing” in the space, we wanted to create intimacy while still being true to the nature of the resort. This was done by bringing the bar to the front of the restaurant to create a lively and inviting atmosphere. The word balance was recreated through establishing a natural progression of public to private areas. Visual balance is represented when looking at the open connection and flow between the bar and main dining space. Through the use of materials and finishes, we created a “unique” space that users will want to come back to. In addition, modular furniture adds flexibility to the space, allowing for different layouts.
